THOMAS PAVITTE is an amazing artist but needs to darken the color of his dots By stuart hanlein Once again Thomas Pavitte, the artist, has created a masterpiece work of art. I enjoy completing the art but there is frustration because of the light color of some of the dots making them difficult to see without significant magnification. I would strongly suggest darker hues for the dot colors. It would be a real shame if a purchaser were not able to see the dots clearly, and fail to complete a real masterpiece. Mr. Pavitte has mastered a technique of over printing that give a three dimensional effect to his work which I applaud. I am anxious to see what his next book will contain but I hope that darker colors will be used by his printer for the dots. I have shown some of the completed designs to friends who cannot believe the pictures are dot to dot designs. Please keep up this wonderful series but darken the dots.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Not what I expectedBy maxine_reignsLove this book! Very engrossing (to the point of having a backache from working on it.) Initially I didn't think I would like doing a project that I felt was more child oriented, but just like adult coloring books, this changed my mind, so much so that I'm looking at other dot-to-dot books by the same author. Granted, yes, the numbers are small and one must pay attention to which number is next -- I'm guilty of connecting the wrong numbers more than once -- but the pictures are amazing and they're just fun to do.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Worth the WaitBy S. TrostleI have excellent eye sight however, I would recommend having a magnifying glass along with a good light source to complete each page in a timely fashion. What was received upon the first completed page was a beautiful piece. Extremely relaxing therapeutic in stress reduction. Unsure if they had to actually construct the book at the time of the order; it was slow to be delivered. Five weeks was a bit long to receive for that which was said to be in stock.

More sophisticated than the one-dimensional images from your childhood, these dot-to-dot puzzles take about 30 minutes each to complete, and they show you how expressive line work can create tonal shading and depth as each section is completed. Enjoy a meditative state as you get into the flow, increasing your hand-eye coordination, mental acuity, and concentration skills while connecting the dots. Have fun on rainy days, complete an image as a party game, or just relax in the moment. Each page is easily removed and displayed when you're finished, so you can show off your handiwork. Do you have your pencil? Ready, set, connect!
