

(Read free ebook) 1001 Great Jokes: From the Delightfully Droll to the Truly Tasteless

1001 Great Jokes: From the Delightfully Droll to the Truly Tasteless

Jeff Rovin

*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1309819 in Books 1987-04-07 1987-04-07 Original language: English PDF # 1 6.90 x 1.20 x 4.20l, .39
Binding: Mass Market Paperback 352 pages | File size: 38.Mb

Jeff Rovin : 1001 Great Jokes: From the Delightfully Droll to the Truly Tasteless before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 1001 Great Jokes: From the Delightfully Droll to the Truly Tasteless:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Not BadBy Earle WilliamsMany of the jokes in this volume are comical. Regrettably, a significant number of the entries will offend those who do not appreciate "dirty jokes."3 of 4 people found the following review helpful. ObsceneBy Ruth A. LindsayWhile the cover of this book claims its content varies from "the delightfully droll to the truly tasteless," almost all of the jokes fall into the latter category. I don't mind a dirty joke or two, but I was heartily disgusted after flipping through this book for five minutes.Unless you are looking for obscene/offensive humor, spare yourself the indignation and choose another joke book.10 of 10 people found the following review helpful. "Tell me another one,just like the other one,tell me another one,dooo..."By Jerry GuildWith this little gem sitting on your shelf,you'll never have to say,"Oh,I just can't remember jokes". Jeff Rovin comes to your rescue with a joke about any subject you can imagine.Not only does he give us 1001 jokes ,he covers the gamut ,so if you're looking for something suitable for or about the school,or one for or about the guys at the bar;you'll find one here.He also has come up with a novel method of showing where jokes can be found of a similar theme in the book. Just to prove the point,a couple of my favorite things are birds,Rubik's Cubes and books,so here goes; "Mary walked into the pet store and,after looking up and down the aisles,asked the proprietor for help. 'I'd like a box of birdseed,'said the lady. 'For what kind of bird?'he asked helpfully. 'Oh,I dunno,'the strange woman replied, 'Whichever will grow the fastest'. "Q: What goes,Click,click,click click,did I get it? Click,click,click,click,did I get it? A: A blind person playing with Rubik's Cube." "I don't know," the world- famous novelist said to his editor."I just don't think my newer books are as good as my earlier works." "Rubbish," the understanding editor replied,"your writing is the same as it ever was,It's your taste that's improved." Now if puns are your thing,he's got them too; "Then there was the Happy Trails Recreation Camp,which posted this sign after Labor Day: 'Clothed for the Winter'" Now don't get the idea all the jokes are as corny as these, for the really sizzling ones,you'll have to check out the book.The book has 351 pages and half of them wouldn't pass the Litmus Test.If you really want to have some fun;put a cover on the book,read it and laugh as you travel on the bus,train or plane.It's particularly helpful if you're looking for a little extra elbow room.

A treasure trove of the funniest, most complete and best-organized adult humor you will ever find. Whether you are looking for sparkling material for a formal dinner speech or crass comments to spice up a friendly poker game, here are more than 250 subjects, ranging from the delightfully droll to the truly tasteless. And to make your search easier, all are arranged alphabetically and cross-referenced to related jokes in other categories. Among the topics skewered in this rich collection are baseball, bathrooms, yuppies, doctors, hillbillies, hospitals, lawyers, mothers-in-law, sex, singles, small towns, weddings, writers, and every other humor-worthy theme in contemporary society.

From the Back CoverThis treasure trove of jokes is the funniest, most complete and best-organized adult humor guide you will ever find. Whether you are looking for a formal dinner speech or crass comments to spice up a friendly poker game, here are more than 250 subjects, ranging from the delightfully droll to the truly tasteless.About the AuthorJeff Rovin sold his first book at age 21 and has been a freelance writer ever since. He has worked as a consultant for television and movies and is a student of martial arts. He's batty about New York, where he currently resides.