

101 Classic Jewish Jokes: Jewish Humor from Groucho Marx to Jerry Seinfeld

Robert Menchin

audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#165966 in Books Mustang Publishing Company TN 1997-09-30Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 7.05 x .32 x 6.09l, .28 #File Name: 091445788896 pagesMustang Publishing Company TN | File size: 62.Mb

Robert Menchin : 101 Classic Jewish Jokes: Jewish Humor from Groucho Marx to Jerry Seinfeld before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 101 Classic Jewish Jokes: Jewish Humor from Groucho Marx to Jerry Seinfeld:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. WorthwhileBy E. F. IsaacsThey are indeed classics --- familiar --- well presented and a pleasure to meet again.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I loved this book because the jokes are never off-colorBy Reid EversI loved this book because the jokes are never off-color, I could enjoy them with my parents as well as with kids.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Ghaleb Abdul-rahmanwhat our son in law wanted

Jewish humor has defined comedy in 20th-century America.

Excerpt. © Reprinted by permission. All rights reserved. CHAPTER 6: JOKES ABOUT FOOD Millie: "The food here is terrible." Ruth: "Yes, and such small portions!" ----- A Jewish gentleman stood before a delicatessen display counter and pointed to a tray. "I'll have a pound of that salmon," he said. "That's not salmon," the clerk said. "It's ham." "Mister," the customer snapped, "in case nobody ever told you, you got a big mouth!" ----- Goldberg was the neighborhood smart aleck. When he saw the sign in the deli that said We Serve Every Type of Sandwich, he called the waiter over. "Is that sign true?" Goldberg asked. "Absolutely, positively! We serve every type of sandwich," the waiter replied proudly. "Then bring me an elephant sandwich on toast," Goldberg said. A slight pause and the waiter replied, "I'm sorry, Mr. Goldberg, but for just one sandwich, we can't start another elephant." ----- A man from Mars lands on Second Avenue in the lower East Side of New York. He goes into a Jewish bakery and asks, "What are those little wheels in the window?" "Those aren't wheels," says the storekeeper. "They're called bagels. Here, try one." The Martian bites into the bagel and says, "Hey! This would go great with some lox and cream cheese!" ----- Jack Grossman, a garment salesman on the road, stopped his car on the main street of a small town in rural Alabama. Tired and hungry and unable to find a restaurant, he walked into a general store that sold hardware and farm supplies and also served food. "What can I do for you?" the proprietor asked. "You handle maybe fertilizer?" "Sure do!" "Good," said Grossman. "Wash your hands and make me a cheese sandwich." ----- Sol and Herbie were finishing their lunch in a New York restaurant when the waiter asked, "Tea or coffee, gentlemen?" "I'll have tea," said Sol. "Me too," said Herbie. "And make sure the glass is clean." The waiter returned in a few minutes and announced, "Two teas! And which one gets the clean glass?" ----- Benjy finally found a birthday gift for his mother: a parrot that spoke Yiddish. When he called her to find out how she liked the present, she said, "Delicious!" "Mama, you ate a parrot that speaks Yiddish?!" he cried. "So," she said, "if he could talk, why didn't he say something?"