Humorous Antics and IllustrationsBy CarolynHumorous illustrations and comments about everything you don't want your dog to do...but he does anyway...and you still love him. It makes you want to hurry to obedience class. After the 101 illustrations, the author turns to a more serious topic. As important as obedience is for your dog, in order to be a part of the family, it is far more important for you in relationship with God and being a part of His family.

Dog owners everywhere will identify with these humorous and heartwarming full-color cartoons, interspersed with quotes and jokes about our favorite furry friends. The lighthearted illustrations will keep you chuckling through your pet's incessant scratching or late-night barking, and remind you of the power of love for our canine companions and the lengths we'll go to in order to keep them safe. Like our pets, we too have a loving Master who desires to keep us out of harm's way, and whose commands we should obey to enjoy eternal life with Him. This entertaining book includes an evangelistic message in the back, offering a creative and inoffensive way to share the gospel with the dog lovers in your life.

From the Back CoverDogs don't eat as much kids, don't ask for money, are easier to train, and usually come when you call them. They don't need a fortune for college, and if they get pregnant, you can sell their offspring. If you are lonely or lack self-esteem, get a dog. Dogs are always pleased to see you, want to be by your side, and stare at you for no reason. That's love. They're loyal, friendly, forgiving, and make you laugh. They protect your family and your property, want to go for walks and play, and never gossip about you. Who could want a better friend? They can even teach us about the benefit of obedience. Yet there are a few things dogs do that are annoying. . .About the AuthorRay Comfort is the co-host (with Kirk Cameron) of the award-winning television program "The Way of the Master."
