1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Thank you !!!By Alec SmithAt the beginning of this review, I would to like to take this opportunity thank Helen Exley and my wife, Valerie. Firstly, Helen for producing a vintage collection of the funniest jokes and quotes on growing older, which contained several references to McKensie compilation of '14,000 Quips and Quotes', and secondly for my wife for buying me Exley's book for Christmas.Long before Databases became a computer term we had lists. I even have a book dedicated to lists. In the early days when you were beginning to climb the corporate ladder what made your answers stand out against all others? The answer was simple but under used, a list of quotations or a yearbook like the Municipal Year Book, the Who's Who in local government since 1898. The famous of all being Who's Who itself the preeminent publisher of biographical information since 1899, in print and now an online database of over 1.5 million people.When I have been asked for a monthly report on a particular subject I tried to include on one main item, a quotation that would sum up the mood of the report. The more important the quotation, the more serious the response. Having had a chance to examine this invaluable book I have been pleased with my investment. I set myself a challenge to find you a quotation in '14,000 Quips and Quotes' to finish on and enhance this review.I understand that this book has been very popular and stocks are running low. My advice is get your order in quick because 'TODAY WILL BE YESTERDAY, TOMORROW'0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good Book - Excellent QualityBy Jerrie W.
