I guess this really is America nowadays. I do have three complaints, however: The photos could be larger instead of centered within needlessly large margins, and the already tiny text is white font against a black background. Designers used to know that white on black is THE most impossible combination to read. And finally, my biggest gripe with daily calendars is repeats, and alas, I just ran across my first duplicate photo, although the (always clever) comment was different. I highly recommend this daily dose of groanful chuckles.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Do They Know How to Use a Mirror?By pendencyIf this calendar doesn't get my day off to a snickering start, then I don't know what will! This is sure to be a big hit. Just bidding my time until Jan 1. This may become an annual gift tradition! What is is about Walmart, anyway?!?0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. You WILL LOL throughout the Year!By Stephen A. WojnarThis calendar delivers consistent laughs throughout the year. I gave the 2013 one to my sister last year and throughout the year I received dozens of "OMG you will NOT believe this one!" texts with photos of that day's page. Guess what she found wrapped under the tree this year??
