Some, but not many of these jokes are old standards. There is a section, "Jokes that Make You Go Eeewww!" that have what many people called potty jokes. If you are offended or don't want your child to read them, you may wish to pass. I'd probably recommend this for `tweeners and adults who like a good clean joke. Younger children will enjoy a lot of them as well as the assortment is quite well-chosen. I read several of these to other people with a very positive response. "Hey, those aren't bad!" Everyone seemed to get a good chuckle out of them, if not an outright guffaw. Frankly, I was quite surprised at the reaction I got from some of these jokes. I've taken the liberty of copying one from each category, but am leaving out what I feel are the best ones. No need to spoil the fun. The jokes are mild and will suit a wide range of people. Not bad, not bad!

 This book was really cute. One thing to note, I purchased it with the hope of contacting the author for permission to use a couple of the jokes, but there is absolutely NO contact info for the author or publisher.

 By C.J. Tremblay
 Recommended for: kids, teachers, parents and grandparents. A fast read and a good memory test when you try to pull out a riddle on an unsuspecting kid. Although the title says jokes, it is really almost exclusively riddles, and usually the play on words kind. As a former teacher, I laughed (and sighed...) when I read this one : What do you call someone who keeps talking even when no one is listening. Guess! And as a children's author (The Old Man and the C), I'll try to remember some of these riddles for my next book signing/reading.

When you have the ability to tell a great joke, you can lighten a mood. You can make someone feel more comfortable. You can make someone happy. The power of laughter is real. You can instantly become the life of the party, the one that people want to sit next to, the one that gets everyone else in a better mood. Children are especially easy to entertain. All children love to hear a joke and some of the best jokes are made up by kids. There is nothing like a good joke to make a boring situation instantly fun. 300 Jokes for Kids contains jokes about: Jokes for the Animal Lover in All of Us Why Waste Time? Tell a Joke!
