First, the "Products" in the "Catalog" are very creative. I won't spoil it, but every page you turn leads to something strange or over-the-top. That is funny in itself, but then, the second funny thing is the mock seriousness of the "Advertising" copy. Advertising has it's own syntax that we are used to, serious and brief. So to see these whacky products described in all seriousness creates a hilarious contrast. I can't resist just giving you a little peek inside. Need a new step ladder? Replace it with the Better Living "Escaladder", a combination step ladder and escalator. I would love to go on, but I want you to enjoy the surprise as you turn the pages. Five stars isn't enough6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. A creative collection of obscure necessities for lifeBy Jeff D. LimonThis book is a compilation of crazy inventions and oddities created by the author. Each invention is accompanied by a "sales pitch" which explains the utility of the invention and how modern man can benefit from the particular creation. This is a very funny book.
