In 1975, Darill Clements answered an advertisement for a position as a Public Relations Assistant at Taronga Zoo, Sydney. After confessing in the interview that she had no interest in animals, she was more than surprised when she was offered the job. After only three months, Darill became an animal and zoo lover, besotted with and inspired by the joy of nature. Postcards from the Zoo highlights behind-the-scenes life at beautiful Taronga Zoo, Sydney, chronicling a time when zoo environments changed from bars to branches. Including tales of Anastasia the albatross who hated heights, the koalas who packed their pouches for Japan and Lulu the chimp who loves fireworks, this is essential reading for all animal lovers.
