Sean Konecky, Michael Cook : Presidential Limericks before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Presidential Limericks:

In keeping with the electoral season, the authors offer up a limerick for every president, as well as one for each of the front runners in this year's contest. Their verses reveal little known sides of the Presidents' characters, especially their amorous proclivities, to which all too little attention has been paid. Adults only, please!
