It is a quick and entertaining read that makes a cloudy day a little brighter.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Puppy in the PulpitBy Kathryn C. HuppWish I could give this book more than 5 stars. A Delight!!! If you love dogs it is a must read.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Good analogies and points to ponder By C. S. Heim Ms. Phillips is wonderful at creating analogies between a dog's life and human's life and our relationship with God. She is very good at making points, both obvious and subtle. We definitely need to learn from our dogs - to enjoy the moment(s) and to take pleasure in the little things in life. The only thing I didn't like about this, and it's just my personal preferences, is that she "bought" Dixie. With over 11 million animals being euthanized every YEAR, I would have preferred if she would have went and adopted an animal from a shelter. As buying from a pet store only promotes demand, and thus the supplier must increase their "supply" thereby increasing the life of misery that those animals in "breeding" facilities must endure. I also didn't like the fact that because she couldn't housetrain her other dog, that she got rid of it...and the way she phrased it came across a little callous.

When Raelene Phillips first spotted her, Dixie Lee was a cuddly furball, sitting on a pillow in a small cage. It wasn't long before the puppy was whisked to her new home where she proceeded to warm the hearts of everyone. Chuckle along with the Phillips as you enjoy the canine antics that have delighted them so much. In order to help with training, they immediately bought a "puppy book." But it never discussed how puppies can T.P. a living room, and it never mentioned how to walk a small dog with a big cow on the other side of the fence. So that book eventually wound up in the trash! The Phillips decided to make their own rules, tailored to a small schnoodle who had stolen their hearts. The late comedienne Gilda Radner once said, "Dogs are the most amazing creatures; they give unconditional love. For me, they are the role model for being alive." And a great role model Dixie has been. From conquering her fears and enjoying hilarious adventures to accepting the family's rules and giving comfort, Dixie has taught her mistress a lesson or two along the way. You'll laugh, you'll cry, and through it all you'll be challenged by these heartwarming stories of Dixie—as if she were preaching from the pulpit. "Raelene Phillips writes of her experiences with a good friend—her little schnoodle named Dixie. Her relationship with this cuddly little 'person' is heartwarming and brings back memories of my own relationships with my 'furry friends.' Mrs. Phillips relates her experiences with Dixie to God's Word in a delightful way. This truly is a fun and easy reading book that can bring the faith of God into your life. It's well worth your time!" —Dr. Milton Wyman, DVM, Founder of the American College of Veterinary Ophthalmologists, and National Veterinarian of the Year
