Some designs are more intricate than others, so I like to use different things depending on the page. Alcohol based markers do bleed through, but putting a couple of pieces of scrap paper behind it, keeps it from going to the next image, and since it's blank on the back, that doesn't really matter. Also some gel pens cause the paper to wrinkle a bit, but not badly. With colored pencil, the color lay down is really nice, and there's enough tooth on the paper to add layers :-)

The mandalas, kaleidoscopic and abstract patterns are very detail oriented. Ankit Chaudhari, you are one talented drawer that's for sure! I'm not going to lie, this coloring book tests my patience, but I mean that in a positive way. One thing that I appreciate about this book is its' size (8.5 x 8.5, I believe?)... which is a decent size for coloring and it's great to take on airplanes. It also easily lays flats on tables while coloring, too! I don't have to worry about the other pages flopping over. The cover is a matte finish. Posted a picture, but hopefully no one judges my ability to choose a color scheme.0
