Myron Brubaker : What Friends Are For before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised What Friends Are For:

When two long-time fishing partners stop to help a "weirdo" with his flat tire, they are in for the surprise of their lives. They know he's an avid inventor of hunting and fishing products and has just built the new outdoor products facility on the edge of town. What they don't know is he's been looking for two candidates to test his products so that he can film their use for his electronic catalog. Bassil Comer and Deet Laffey are in for the ride of their lives because Winfred B. Inventory will stop at nothing to create the coolest, state-of-the-art hunting and fishing supplies. They are about to embark on a lifelong journey of trading the safety of their arms, legs, and other body parts for all the free gear and high adventure they can endure. Survive they do, but not without some hilarious misadventures and a good portion of their skin and dignity missing.
