This book will meet the expectations of both beginners or more advanced colorists : there are drawings with a lot of details and other with bigger areas.The drawings may appear childish at first sight but actually they will bring you in a world of dreams and poetry. The drawings will help you to escape from real world and relax.A coloring book to discover ! I really recommend it for all the dreamers ! I just fell in love with the drawings !Note : I was provided the PDF of this book and was asked to write an honest review. So this review is unbiased.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Illustrations from a Female PerspectiveBy Customer“When Dreams Come True,” is a unique coloring book sketched from the feminine psyche. This coloring book showcases the playfulness of romance, travel, and savoring the present moment. Each page challenges the colorist to think outside the color pencil box and find inspiration in the adventures each day brings. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Quite unique! Great ideas behind the designs. By colorist_1984I was just provided a free PDF for this coloring ebook for my honest opinion. I love the designs/pictures in this ebook! There are quite a few pages in the book. I'm looking forward to working on them with the new gel pens I just bought recently. :-) Thank you everyone from Need for Color!!

About the Author Petya is one of those artists who took their time with discovering and realizing their artistic vocation. Before devoting herself to the art she used to be in PR but the corporate world turned out to be too cold for her creative spirit. In 2011 she began painting more and more often and since then her works have participated in 10 exhibitions putting an end to her office career. She dived completely into the world of art. Currently, she lives and creates in Prague. We have asked Petya Konstantinova five questions: 1. Who is Petya? Petya is just your regular girl, with a deep love for animals (with a special place in her heart reserved for cats, which you can actually tell by her paintings). She also enjoys traveling, cooking, reading contemporary literature, the small joys of life – a slice of watermelon, maybe a nice warm cup of coffee, but mostly she finds joy in watching the sun rise above the beach. 2. What do you get from art? It gives me the freedom to get lost in a world of my own. 3. Do you have any rituals for when you start creating? Well usually, my art goes hand in hand with a cup of coffee or a glass of white wine. Often I find my art accompanied by my two cats that do their best to get involved in the process, usually resulting in various color spots all over their fur. 4. What got you into making a coloring book for grownups? Coloring is a type of a creative activity, which helps you shift quickly from the dreaded trap of the mundane to another state of mind. The satisfaction one gets from looking at the completed picture is very powerful and energizing. 5. When do you ever find yourself in need for some color? This is directly linked to my emotions. Usually, all I need is a black nib and a blank piece of paper. Other times, in order to extract a certain state of mind from myself I also need to throw in some colors. For me what comes first is usually the shape and then the color. The color itself kind of emerges on its own.
