

(Library ebook) You Cannot Be Serious!: The 101 Most Infuriating Things in Sport

You Cannot Be Serious!: The 101 Most Infuriating Things in Sport

Matthew Norman

ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Fourth Estate 2011-12-01Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 .80 x 5.00 x 7.60l, .45 #File Name: 0007438737300 pages | File size: 42.Mb

Matthew Norman : You Cannot Be Serious!: The 101 Most Infuriating Things in Sport before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised You Cannot Be Serious!: The 101 Most Infuriating Things in Sport:

In an Orwellian Ministry of Sport, what ultimate terror would await you in Room 101? Would Tim Henman's choking crush the spirit sooner than the glacial detachment of his parents? Would the philandering of an Ashley Cole or a Will Carling break you faster than the pipe-smoking prissiness of bowlsman David Bryant or the obese bare-chested Geordie football fan in winter? Would it be Neville Neville's unrepentant siring of Phil that cracked you, or the Charidee Fun Runner doing the marathon in the guise of Spiderman? The nasally overexcited John Motson or the mellifluously smug Peter Alliss? How do you rank the self-pitying lunacy of Arsène Wenger against Alex Ferguson's psychotic ranting? Or the shameful innumeracy of referee Graham Poll against umpire Billy Bowden's sinister crook-finger? Counting down the greatest torments in sport from 101 to number one has been a filthy job. But someone had to do it.

Acclaim for Matthew Norman: 'That f*cking idiot' Alan Sugar 'Moron' Frank Warren 'I'm going to do him physical damage' David Pleat 'When it comes to ridiculing people in the spotlight there is no one sharper or funnier than Matthew Norman - and I should know' Peter Mandelson
About the Author Matthew Norman is a journalist and broadcaster in many forms. He writes about sport in the Daily Telegraph, for which he is also the restaurant reviewer. He has been the British Press Awards Food and Drink Writer of the Year (2004) and Columnist of the Year (2008). He is married with a son and lives in London.