Important hardcover info most others don't tell.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Four StarsBy reivaj18I really enjoy it. He has a great sense of humor.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Bought this book for two friends who are great animal loversBy DAC girlBought this book for two friends who are great animal lovers. I've never read it but it had me with the title. Both friends enjoyed the book very much; said they got a lot of laughs.

This hilarious book of dog cartoons reminds us why we give them free room and board. Jack Ziegler can't resist the occasional comment on human affairs in dog disguise, but he also has a lot to say about pups on their own terms. From howling at the moon to refusing to fetch, from the merits of canned versus dry food to those irresistibly wagging tails, these cartoons—some of which have appeared in The New Yorker, though many are published here for the first time—will brighten any canine-lover's day.

About the Author Jack Ziegler has published more than 1,000 cartoons in The New Yorker. His most recent books include How's the Squid? A Book of Food Cartoons (2004), and Olive or Twist? A Book of Drinking Cartoons (2005). Ziegler lives in Connecticut.
